

Why should you belong to a trade union?

The collective agreements negotiated by trade unions guarantee fair terms of employment to all employees in the sector. For example, trade unions and employers agree on minimum pay, working times and pay supplements through collective agreements.

Teknoliiketeollisuus ry, representing the employers, stated that it no longer negotiates collective agreements. It will establish a new organisation for negotiation that companies may join if they want to continue to commit to collective agreements for the whole industry. Now companies are making decisions on how the employees' terms of employment are determined in the future.

Finnish legislation contains provisions on terms of employment, but collective agreements provide employees with more comprehensive protection and better benefits than mere legislation.

Now it is more important than ever to join a union!
